PARENTS QUIZZED IN MOUNT CASE

Ordered Before Grand Jury Probing University Tragedy

MISS FUCHS ALSO CALLED

Former Student Arrested in Akron Returned to Chicago

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) — The parents of Leighton Mount, missing Northwestern University student, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mount, were the first witnesses ordered before the Cook-co grand jury today in its investigation of the finding a week ago of a skeleton which has been identified by Mrs. Mount and Dr. T. H. Ivey, the family dentist, as that of the youth who dropped from sight after a freshman-sophomore class rush in September 1921. Miss Doris Fuchs, to whom young Mount was attentive and who received a letter from him the day he disappeared, Charles W. Leggett, chief of police of Evanston, the North Shore suburban site of Northwestern University and persons present when the skeleton was removed from under a pier are others in the list of more than one hundred persons subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury.

Students, former students, University officials and private detective agency operatives go to make up the witness list.

Subpoenas were issued for representatives of the W. J. Burns and Pinckerton detective agencies, employed by the Mount family to trace the youth.

MILLS TAKEN BACK

AKRON — (Associated Press) — Akron police admitted this morning that Joseph Mills, former Northwestern University student, was taken to Chicago for questioning on the death of Leighton Mount, another Northwestern student whose skeleton was found hidden under a pier at the Evanston lake front.

Mills returned in custody of Assistant City Attorney Louis Blumhagen and C. Czaros of Chicago. The three left here at 1:30 o'clock this morning for Cleveland where they were to take a train for Chicago.

The return of Mills was held up for several hours by his father, J. C. Mills, Columbus advertising man. The elder Mills retained two attorneys to oppose the return of his son. An agreement was reached, however, and the father consented to let Mills go with the Chicago officials.

GET OUT THE HEAVIES AGAIN!

Cold Wave Coming Out of Alaska—Frost Tonight Predicted—Freakish Weather Thruout U. S.

WASHINGTON — (United Press) — A spring cold wave, sweeping out of Alaska, will have the entire eastern and middle western half of the United States in its grip by Wednesday, United States weather forecasters here predicted today.

Frosts will be general as far south as Kentucky and Tennessee. The storm was central over the lake region and adjacent territory with freezing temperature and snow reported from Minneapolis, St. Paul, LaCrosse, Wisconsin and points in Illinois. The storm moved eastward rapidly and colder weather will hit the east tonight.

While the weather bureau declined to state whether the cold wave would be severe enough in the east to damage fruit and other crops, it was stated the temperature "will be unseasonably low for this time of the year."

Frosts will occur tonight in Ohio, Tennessee and Kentucky, the forecasters stated.

Cold weather, accompanied by rain, will reach New England tonight.

The cold wave will last three or four days, it was predicted.

As an indication of the freakishness of the weather in different points in the United States, San Bernardino, California today reported the hottest May day in 40 years when the mercury climbed to 101, and Grand Forks, North Dakota reported snow in that city and several other cities in the vicinity.

DEMANDED SUM IS ORDERED PAID

Action Taken by Pekin Government to Free Prisoners

U. S. REQUEST IS HEEDDED

Shantung Governor Told to Concede to Bandits' Wishes

PEKIN — (United Press) — The Chinese government has ordered the governor of Shantung to concede to the demand of the bandits and obtain the immediate release of all foreigners who were kidnapped. The governor is ordered to pay the ransom if necessary.

PEKIN — (United Press) — The foreign legations have sent an ultimatum to the Chinese government, demanding the immediate release of all prisoners held by the Shantung bandits.

"Free all foreigners immediately, alive. We don't care what methods are used, but free them," is the message sent to the government.

WASHINGTON ACTS

WASHINGTON — (United Press) — The United States and other leading powers have demanded that the Chinese government ransom the Americans and other foreigners held captive by Chinese bandits, the state department announced today.

This demand was made by American Minister Schurman and the other foreign diplomats in Pekin who decided at a meeting today on this and other steps.

The ransom demanded by the bandits is reported to be $1,000,000. Schurman and the other diplomats also are making strongest possible representations to the Chinese government demanding immediate dispatch of punitive forces against the bandits to rescue the foreigners and punish the outlaws.

DEATH THREATENED

PEKIN — (United Press) — Foreign prisoners of the Chinese bandits in Shantung will be killed after three days, unless government troops cease firing, according to a message brought from the outlaws camp by Miss Minnie MacFadden, one of the women released.

From Miss MacFadden and from others who were captured and later freed, Robert P. Scripps, American newspaper publisher, obtained the first description of what occurred after the hostages had been taken from wrecked Pekin express and hustled away into the hills.

Miss MacFadden, companion to Miss Lucy A. Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made her way back from the camp with great difficulty, after being turned loose, wearing a Chinese woman's costume. Refugees reported they were not harmed by the bandits and that although firing heard, no bullets struck where the prisoners were placed.

Scripps' dispatch follows:

(By ROBERT P. SCRIPPS)

PEKIN — (United Press) — I was awakened by a crash, followed by a volley of bullets against the steel coaches. The bandits smashed the windows with their pistols and crawled thru into the stairways and corridors. I rushed to Miss Aldrich's room and brought her to my cabin. Then the bandits entered, filled our baggage and ordered us all from the train.

Miss Minnie MacFadden, companion to Miss Lucy Aldrich, gave this description of the attack by brigands on the Pekin express early Sunday morning. She was one of the prisoners carried away by the outlaws, but was later released to bring back word that all captives would be killed within three days if the government troops did not cease firing.

SHANTUNG, THE CHINESE HOTBED

The train holdup and kidnapping of American citizens occurred on the Pukow-Tientsin Railway, somewhere in the area within the circle on the map. It is directly in the province of Shantung, long a hotbed of Chinese unrest. It was here that the Boxer rebellion started in 1899.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $30,000

Business Blocks and Residence Razed by Flames

GASOLINE STOVE EXPLODES

Girl Knocked Down, But Not Injured

Fire starting at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday in a small room in the building occupied by Mosier Bros. restaurant and confectionary store in Elida, west of here six miles, on the south side of Main-st. threatened the destruction of the entire district. Loss will be approximately $30,000, it is estimated.

Flames were due to an explosion of a gasoline stove in the Mosier restaurant. Miss Rosella John, 16, a clerk, was knocked down by the force of the explosion. It is stated, but was not seriously hurt or burned.

The flames spread rapidly to the west, attacking the Kinsey Bros. grocery and the residence of Emil Bechtel. The business houses, one story frame structures, and the Bechtel residence, two stories, were totally destroyed, it is reported.

For the most part the household goods were removed from the Bechtel home. Part of the goods from the stores were also gotten out.

The village fire department, with a chemical fire lighter, battled the flames heroically, aided by citizens and a fall of rain and sleet.

An appeal was made to the Lima fire department for aid. A pumper from No. 3 house, in charge of Fire Chief Mack, made a quick run from this city to Elida and aided the Elida pumper in combating the flames.

The fire was under control at 2 p. m. it was stated.

Flames, leaping from the Mosier restaurant to the east, attacked the J. H. Easlen dry goods store building, a brick structure, but only the windows were damaged.

Merle and Nolan Mosier, owners of the burned restaurant, are among the heaviest losers.

Miss Luella John in charge of the Elida telephone exchange, was besieged with calls from adjacent towns and cities for information during the progress of the fire.

It had been reported that the entire village was in flames. Nearly everyone in the little town turned out to fight the fire.

Ward told the court he had not kept up his payments but pleaded unemployment as an excuse. He was held in $100 bond, to appear for a preliminary hearing Friday. Ward formerly resided at Bluffton.

STONE KIDNAPING CASE RECALLED

Nationwide excitement caused by the capture of rich Americans by Chinese bandits recalls vividly another kidnapping involving an American—the Stone abduction.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, an American missionary, traveling thru the then Turkish province of Macedonia, was captured by Bulgarian brigands under leadership of the notorious outlaw, Boris Sandanski, in September, 1901, and held to ransom.

The Turkish government, provided by the United States, made strenuous efforts to rescue her, but finally was compelled to abandon the attempt thru fear that Miss Stone and a companion, Mme. Tsuka, who was taken with her, would be slain by their captors.

A movement was then launched in the United States to raise by subscription the ransom demanded by Sandanski.

The latter originally insisted on payment of 25,000 pounds, or about $125,000, but later agreed to accept $50,000, valued by popular donation in America.

The money having been turned over to him, he faithfully released the prisoners, in February, 1902.

A baby was born to Mme. Tsuka during her captivity.

HOMESICKNESS CAUSES WRITING OF NOTED SONG

NEW YORK — (Special) — One hundred years ago a young American composer—John Howard Payne—stood at a window of his London apartment. He was homesick. Three thousand miles separated him from his home, and the great distance from the beloved cottage at East Hampton, L. I., gnawed at his heart.

He watched the crowds, gay, colorful throngs in the street below. Finally, he could stand it no longer. Payne, who then was 22, crossed the room, sat at his desk, and the words that we drew from his soul have lived ever since as "Home, Sweet Home."

"Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

Payne, a man of the world despite his years, meant that.

UNITE IN CELEBRATION

And now, one hundred years after the homesick man wrote the words destined to be repeated at one time or another by every English-speaking man or woman in the world, musicians of England and America are uniting in celebration.

"Home, Sweet Home" was but one number in a musical offering "Clari, the Maid of Milan." It is the only number to survive.

The impression once held that Payne, when he wrote the words, was a "homeless author," and down-and-out, has been shattered a long time. He was far from that.

Born in 1791 in New York City, Payne entered Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., at an early age. While there, as an editor of a magazine, he wrote a poem he called "Home, Dear Home." It was this poem that was rewritten years later, into the one we all know.

BECAME ACTOR

Payne soon developed a liking for the stage. His parents objected, and he turned his talents to theatrical writing.

When he left college, his parents were bankrupt. No longer did he deny the call of the stage. "Virtually his first appearance, at the old Park Theater, New York, was a profit, the words of the one song in complete success. In a short while he sailed for London, the first American actor to invade that country.

Once there, however, he developed an ability to write plays and soon abandoned acting altogether. "Brutus," a tragedy, with Edmund Keen in the title role, was a tremendous success. Other productions followed. These so filled him with confidence that he turned to producing—and in a short time found himself in the Fleet-st jail for a debt of $7,000.

He wrote "These, the Orphan of Geneva," and with the proceeds cleared his debts and gave him something over and above.

It is now that we meet "Home, Sweet Home." For "Clari, the Maid of Milan," was his next effort, which he sold for $1250.

WRITES PLANTERPIECE

He composed "Home, Sweet Home" on a dull September day.

OVER 200 KILLED IN BATTLE

Casualties Heavy in Clash of Italians and Africans

TRIPOLI, North Africa — (United Press) — Two hundred natives have been killed in fighting with Italian troops in the desert, dispatches received here today stated. Northern Italian soldiers also are dead.

Fierce fighting began when a column under Colonel Ruggieri on May 4 occupied Tologras in an oasis forty kilometers south of Misrata and continued for three days as the Italian troops moved further into native strongholds.

On May 4, the Italians attacked Bragamat, 20 kilometers south of Tologras. Native Arabian forces resisted strongly and only withdrew to permit occupation of the place after a large portion of their fighting force had been slain.

Wounded in the engagement included the native chief, Saabul Shehah.

GIRL IS KIDNAPED

Ohio Child Believed Captive of Italian Band

BARBERTON, Ohio — (United Press) — Police today were preparing to swoop down on a shack in the woods four miles from here, where it is believed that a band of Italians is holding Mildred Bancourt, 14.

A cousin of the kidnapped girl, Alice Coffella, 10, told police today that she knew who had kidnapped the girl and where she was, but that she was afraid to tell because the band, she said, had threatened to kill her if she did.

The Bancourt girl was kidnapped from her home Sunday night. Detectives working on the case say they believe the girl was drugged when taken.

She encountered the anger of the Italian gang by telling some of their secrets, police believe.

A relative of the girl is sought in connection with the kidnapping.

$1,000,000 RANSOM DEMANDED BY BANDITS

PARLEY HELD IN CHINESE CASE

Diplomats Confer on Plans to Free Prisoners

CAPTIVES BEATEN BY THUGS

American Tells of Brutal Treatment by Gang

PEKIN — (Associated Press) — With nineteen foreigners, most of them Americans, still held by the Chinese bandits who seized the Shanghai-Peking Express train near Suchow, Kiangsu province Sunday, the latest report here at this hour, 10:35 a. m., was that a ransom of $1,000,000 has been demanded for the return of the captives. The desperadoes also were said to be holding out for their own pardon. Diplomatic representatives of the foreign governments were conferring this morning in an effort to find the most effective way to deal with the situation. United States Minister Schurman, who had gone to Tsinanfu before the holdup, was in touch with the other members of the diplomatic corps by telegraph today. Mr. Schurman left for Shanghai this morning over the railway on which the raid occurred. She was to be joined by her husband at Tsinanfu.

Reports that all the women captives had been released backed complete confirmation this morning and there was nothing to contradict last night's advice that at least one woman, Senora Andra, of Guadalajara, Mexico, was among the hostages.

LIST OF PRISONERS — Fifteen foreigners, all men, eight of them Americans, still are in the hands of the Suchow train bandits, according to a list compiled here today. Two others escaped and have reached Tsinanfu. Two lives were lost, Joseph Rothman, British, shot down at the scene of the holdup Sunday, and an unidentified American, killed in a fight between the bandits and pursuing troops Monday.

Following is a list of the foreigners held by the bandits: AMERICANS—Major Roland Pinger, Jr., Manila; Major Robert Allen, Manila; Robert Allen Jr., Manila; Leo Friedman, China Motors Corporation, Shanghai; J. B. Powell, editor Weekly Review, Shanghai; Leo Solomon, Shanghai; J. A. Henley, China and Far East Finance and Commerce Periodical, Shanghai.

OTHER NATIONALITIES—Chevalier Musso, attorney, Milan, Shanghai; Fred Elias, broker, British, Shanghai; Edward Ellis, broker, British, Shanghai; Theodore Saphire, broker, British, Shanghai; Emilio Gonsberger, broker, French, Shanghai; Manuel Andra, Vera, Mexican, Guadalajara, Mexico; F. W. Pratt, nationality not known.

PRISONERS BEATEN — TIENTSIN, China — (Associated Press) — Day and Jacobson and Miss Cornill, three of the foreigners who escaped from the bandits who raided the Peking express at Suchow early Sunday, arrived here this morning. They said that Miss Lucy T. Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., companion, Miss Minnie MacFadden and Miss Schoenberg had stopped in Tsinanfu, where they were admitted to a hospital suffering from shock. Their feet were cut and bruised.

Day, an American, said that the bandits split the captives into several parties after forcing them to leave the train. The prisoners, guarded heavily, were brutally hurried into the hilly country which is the stronghold of the bandits.

"If a prisoner lagged, he was prodded with a rifle butt," said Day. "We had to take the roughest path. It was useless to protest and strict silence was enforced. Any one speaking was mercilessly hit. I was struck on the forehead with a Mautser for talking to my neighbor."

LAIR OF BANDITS — The Lair of the bandits, Day continued was a village in the hills encircled by a stone compound. Within an hour or two after the arrival of the prisoners, soldiers appeared outside the town and soon a lively engagement was in progress.

The brigands' chief persuaded Day to take a note to the commander of the military forces informing him that if the fire did not stop the captives would be shot. Day had a harrowing experience in making his way across the open ground to the troops, as he was fired on by both the military and the bandits, some of the latter being ignorant of his mission.

Day delivered his message, whereupon the commander of the troops ordered them to cease firing, but the force did not withdraw. Remaining with the military, Day started a search for some of the other prisoners and came upon Miss Schoenberg sitting on a boulder exhausted. She like the others, had escaped, when dispatched as a messenger.

The Tsuchin of Shanghai has sent reinforcements to the scene and the British, French and Belgian consuls from Nanking have also gone to Linchow.

HARROD MAYOR IS HEALTHIER HEAD

Kirby White President of County Board; Elect Members

Dr. I. C. Stayner, Spencerville, was elected to the Allen-co Board of Health for a period of one year to fill the unexpired term of Dr. G. E. Miller, and Dr. R. E. Hugheson, Bluffton, was re-elected for the regular term of five years at a meeting of the advisory council at the office of the county health commissioner, Dr. J. J. Sutter, it was announced Tuesday.

The council, consisting of township chairmen and mayors throughout the county, elected Mayor Kirby White, of Harrod, president, and G. A. Book, of Spencerville, secretary for the coming year.

Thoro inspection of dairies, slaughter houses and other places whose sanitation is to the public interest was urged by the council. Under the present system, Dr. Sutter explained, the county health commissioner may inspect such places, but owing to lack of county regulations can only refer his findings to state department of agriculture for action. The state department, suffering thru lack of funds, is unable adequately to prosecute the work of the county health commissioners.

It is the intention of Boards of health over the state to enact a uniform milk regulation law within a few months, Dr. Sutter said. Thru concerted individual action, a state-wide regulation can be imposed with provision for enforcing and collecting imposed fines.

Such action will necessarily depend upon an increased budget, Dr. Sutter said. Provision for improved sanitary inspection can be made with an additional increase of the budget allowance of only four cents per capita, he declared.

The Allen-co health board now consists of the following members: A. J. Gray, Lima; R. H. Rex, Bath; J. C. Guider, Richland; Dr. R. E. Hugheson, Bluffton; and Dr. I. C. Stayner, Spencerville.

Chester Pendleton, chairman of the Lima district men's alumni, and Miss Ruth Seymour, chairman of the women's section, will be Lima representatives at the dinner, at which a plan of campaign for the Oberlin endowment and building fund will be outlined.

Alumni representatives of Oberlin are expected from the following towns: Oberlin, Bluffton, Kenton, Van Wert, Celina and Findlay. It is planned to hold general alumni meetings in each of these towns later, Miss Seymour stated Tuesday.

DEMANDED SUM IS ORDERED PAID

and was sent out under a flag of truce, with a message from the brigands to the soldiers, said he was accompanied by a Chinese bearing an ultimatum written in English and Chinese, warning that the captives would be slain unless firing was stopped. The outsiders said they were not harmed by the bandits and that although they heard shooting the bullets were not falling near them.

PRISONERS DIVIDED — These refugees gave the first description of what occurred after they were carried away from the train and taken into the hills. They reported that the bandits numbered about 1,500 and that they were well armed with mausers and automatics. They told the captives that they did not want money, only hostages which would insure their pardon.

"After we had been taken from the train," Miss MacFadden said, "the prisoners were divided into five bands which were ordered to march rapidly over the rough fields toward the mountains. Miss Aldrich was separated from me. I called to her a warning not to identify herself for fear the highest ransom would be demanded if the brigands knew who she was."

"We were clad only in night clothes and we were barefooted. We were made to march over stony ground. On of the bandits was gallant, helping me on the stony hillsides."

"We must have tramped miles, finally reaching an unsheltered camp. There an outlaw soldier provided blankets, but we could not sleep. All the people in our group were huddled together because of the weather which was cold."

"We were held there all during the night. Our only food was bean cakes. We heard firing in the surrounding hills in the morning, but the bullets did not come near us." (Copyright, 1923)

WOMEN, TRUSTEES IN JOINT MEET

Division of Activities of Two Bodies Planned

A line of demarcation between the field of activities of the women's board of managers of the District Tuberculosis hospital and that of the trustees will be defined at a joint meeting Wednesday at the hospital. Between 40 and 50 persons are expected to be present.

"The women are trying to do too much," Superintendent C. A. Files said Monday. "They want to take responsibility for buying the linens, for instance. The trustees have funds for that purpose already and we think they ought to spend their money for something else; something that the trustees are not authorized to buy."

"The women have been whirlwinds," Files continued. "Where they get all the money, I don't know, but they've bought a radio apparatus, seats have got the money to buy an X-ray machine, and now they want to build some rustic bridges and erect swings on the grounds."

Mrs. E. C. Long is president of the women's board of managers. Among those who will attend the meeting Wednesday are Mrs. Mary Boorly, Sidney, chairman for Shelby; Mrs. R. Miller, chairman for Auglaize-co; Mrs. E. Vordenfeld, Celina, chairman for Mercer-co.

A chicken dinner at 12 o'clock will divide the meeting into two sessions. The committee on table decorations is composed of Mrs. E. Crossly, Mrs. E. W. Stump, Mrs. L. P. Edmiston.

Reception committee will be composed of Mrs. R. D. Muehlen, Mrs. H. N. Wigglesworth and Mrs. David Rosenheim.

STANDARD OIL INCREASE NOT EFFECTIVE IN LIMA

Local employees of the Standard Oil Co. are not affected by a five-cent an hour wage increase announced at Chicago Thursday for 22,000 employees, Lima officials said.

The advance is effective May 16 and will apply to a majority of refinery employees at Whiting, Indiana; Wood River, Illinois; Sugar Creek, Missouri and Casper, Grebbut and Laramie, Wyoming.

"The increase will amount to $2-300,000 yearly," company officials said in announcing that it is warranted by the general economic situation.

HELD TO GRAND JURY — Charged with failure to support his daughters, Dorothy 13, and Thelma, 11, M. J. Earl, 50, Auglaize-co, was held to the grand jury at a hearing before Justice E. M. Bolkin, Tuesday. The complaint against the man was filed by Mrs. Gusta Lamb, of Columbus Grove, his former wife.

WATCH, RING STOLEN — A gold watch and ruby ring, both valued at $75, were reported stolen from the home of Wilbur Klinker, 311 E. Vine-st, sometime Monday. He asked police to locate them. The watch was the wrist style and had the letters "E. W. R." engraved on the back.

GLOOM FEATURES DAY'S FORECAST

Great gobs of gloom features the current weather forecast. It's to be either frost or rain. Most folks will prefer the latter as the lesser of the two evils—if indeed a badly needed rain may be considered an evil.

Thirty-minute rainfall Tuesday morning has served to help thirsty vegetation, rapidly getting near the parched stage as a result of lack of moisture. Mostly cloudy and colder tonight; rain near Lake Erie. Probably frost in west port-cleers. Wednesday fair and colder.

The populace is wondering if the weather maker will ever come out of it. Stretching winter into spring is not altogether conducive to the peace of mind of the people generally and is serving to hold back development of fruits and vegetables. Not satisfied with killing the hopes of mushroom hunters, the weatherman is also putting a damp-sper on the operations of fishermen. Perhaps tho, a shower of rain will induce the bullheads to start biting. Hope for reasonable weather conditions is not being given up.

A license granted the couple in 1915 was revoked by Judge Fred C. Becker, shortly after it was issued because George was not divorced.

Recently the way was cleared for legality; his marriage to his sweet-heart.

The groom is a Serbian national and the bride gave Rumania as the land of her nativity.

WOOL POOL TIME IS EXTENDED

New Ruling Permits Signing of Late Contracts

PLAN GROWERS' ASSOCIATION

Farm Bureau Establishes New Departments

Allen-co farmers who did not sign up for the wool shipments by the first of April are to have another opportunity to pool their wool, H. J. Ridge, county agent, stated Tuesday.

Recent ruling of the state department permits signing of late contracts to dispose of wool thru the Ohio Sheep and Wool Growers' association, provided additional payment of one cent per pound be made.

Man, wool growers who did not enter the pool have visited the office recently, seeking an opportunity to join the pool, Ridge said, and it is probable a similar movement over the entire state has caused the provision for late entrance by the state authorities.

The wool pool this spring was conducted by the Ohio Sheep and Wool Growers' association affiliated with the Farm Bureau. Shipment of fleece is made to the Columbus warehouse, from which place it will be disposed of on the best possible market.

Ohio will have a state grain growers' association within a year, Ridge predicted Tuesday in commenting on the efforts of the Farm Bureau federation to organize farmers into a controlling position with respect to produce marketing.

The Farm Bureau already has established the following service departments: Auditing, transportation, legal, statistical, investigation, publicity and organization. The bureau has also operating fruit, vegetable, dairy and wool marketing departments.

Grain marketing has not yet fully developed, Ridge states, and it is the intention of leaders of Farm Bureau activity to organize all departments into a smooth running business machine that will eventually result in an opportunity for the producer to regulate world trade.

Minnesota, South Dakota and Indiana will be ready to begin cooperative grain marketing this year, Ridge said. States in the southwest have already organized. Within a few years it is hoped that farmers over the entire country will be in a position to regulate exportable grain surplus.

Members of the Farm Bureau units of Spencerville and Rockport will hold meetings Tuesday evening.

The Rockport meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church and the Spencerville assembly at K. of P. hall.

DREADED DISEASE NOT CHECKED

Cures For Many Ills Found; But Cancer Carries On

$100,000 PRIZE OFFERED

Three Thousand Treatments
Sent In Competition

MONTREAL — (Special) — Diabetes has just been conquered by insulin.

Dreaded leprosy is somewhat checked
by Chaulmoogra oil.

Yellow fever has been practically eradicated.

Vaccines has stamped out small-pox.

But Cancer—one of the most deadly and prevalent afflictions of mankind—is still unchecked.

There is hope for its ultimate control, tho. The $100,000 prize offered by Lord Atholstan for an effective cancer cure has attracted worldwide attention.

Three thousand claims of cures from 49 different nations, have been submitted by medical men, fanatics,
etc., in the 15 months since Lord
Atholstan, owner of the Montreal
Star and associated publications, posted his reward. More are coming in daily.

Discovery of a "medical treatment for the effective cure of cancer" is sought by Lord Atholstan as a gift to the world.

OFFER IN LETTER

The offer was given to the world in the form of a brief letter sent by Canada's foremost newspaper publisher to Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, January
2, 1922.

The news was flashed instantly to every corner of the globe and for the next three months a steady stream of answers poured in from Egypt, Japan, Peru, Bulgaria, Denmark, Algeria, New Zealand and a score of other lands.

In less than six months the 2600
mark has been passed and since then nearly a thousand names have been added to the list.

Of the remedies already filed, 400 can be ruled out as not complying with the original offer, coming from faith healers, advocates of autosug-gestion and religious fanatics.

Of the others, some are too wildly fantastic to warrant investigation,
others are obviously improbable.

SNAIL DIET

One applicant suggests a diet of snails and several rely on mud baths.
Almost every plant in herbarium has been called into service as a specific with blood-root an easy first and with red clover chopped fine having the following.

Lord Atholstan now has called an offer to the Imperial Cancer Research Fund, offering an additional gift of $10,000 to be devoted to the study of the dread disease.

The donor of these requests is the first Canadian-born peer to be raised to the House of Lords for services rendered to the British Empire. This "All-Canadian peer" has been a newspaper owner all his life.

At the age of 18 he joined the staff of the Montreal Gazette and before he was 21, with a gross capital of $100, he had joined George T. Langan, author of many pungent essays and some light verse, in starting the Montreal Star.

Early tradition of the paper tells of pennies collected from newsboys over the counter being passed to the paper merchant for the next day's supplies.

MOVEMENT UNDER WAY FOR CHURCH MERGER

CLEVELAND — A movement for a national merger of the Congregational and Northern Presbyterian denominations was under way in Cleveland today.

A joint committee appointed early last winter to study the advisability of a proposed union recommended
the establishment of a joint board of control to have charge of the future extension work of the two churches in the Cleveland district.

The report of the committee was approved in joint conference of the Cleveland Congregational Union and the Cleveland Presbytery.

National merger of the two bodies must be forced by the individual action in different districts, in the opinion of the committee.

JONES RE-ELECTED

CLEVELAND — Robinson C.
Jones, re-elected superintendent of Cleveland public schools for five year term.

CONTINUATION OF LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE GAY LITTLE MARQUISE

Jack began to get quiet as I asked him to turn the roadster into the street our apartment was on. You know, dear little Marquise, it is one of the most fashionable in the city.

I said, "What is the matter?"

At first he answered nothing but after I had questioned him two or three times he replied in a business-like tone, "I hope Leslie, you haven't paid too much for the apartment."

Perhaps it was the consciousness of knowing that I had paid too much for it that made me angry at his tone. You must know, gay little Marquise, I have a very quick temper.

In a tone as cold as his I said,
"You put yourself out of the critical class, Jack, when you would not let me commit you in any way."

I knew that you would want to have
live only in a good part of the city.
I knew that you would want to have plenty of air. I knew that you would want me to have some of the necessities to which I was accustomed.

"If you had seen the places that were shown me when I was looking for an apartment, you should be perfectly satisfied with this one whatever I paid for it."

"It isn't a question, my dear girl,
of what you paid for it. It is a question of what we can afford. Perhaps it would have been better to have boarded a while."

At this inauspicious moment we drove up to the curb of the apartment house, which is very imposing.
I saw Jack look over in disapproval.
I wonder if he would have disapproved as much of a tenement?

We walked in, were met by an obsequious office attendant, and were taken up to the apartment in a worseous elevator. I opened the door and turned on the switch. Even Jack had to admire it.

"Good Lord, Leslie, I never saw such magnificence," he remarked grudgingly.

"Only good taste and persistent shopping, Jack," I answered.

Notwithstanding I said this, Jack's face grew longer and longer. He didn't admire anything as Earl Whitney had. He did not make me feel as tho I had done something splendid. Instead he made me feel that I had not only made a great mistake but in some way had committed almost a crime.

I didn't even dare tell him about mother giving me some more money to furnish the bedroom, because when he saw the piano he said, "How much rent are you paying for that thing?"

And I answered, "I am not paying any rent. It belongs to us."

"Good Lord," was all he said.

Then he sat down in the easy chair which I had planned for his special comfort and never noticing

the smoking set and his own lamp
face grew longer and longer. He by which he could read. He looked up at me and said very, very sternly, "Leslie, how much have you gone into debt?"

"I don't owe a dollar."

"How much of the money your mother gave us have you spent?"

"I have spent every cent that mother gave me."

"I thought I told you that I wanted a thousand dollars, at least, of that money to pay on some stock."

"And you will remember that I reminded you mother gave me that money for a specific purpose—to furnish this apartment."

CONRAD COMING TO AMERICA

Famous Novelist Not To Lecture Or Make Money

COMES TO SPEND IT, SAYS

"English" Writer Comes Of Polish Family

By MILTON BRONNER
LONDON (Special) — Joseph Conrad, one of the world's greatest novelists, will land in the United States in a few days to set a record. He is not coming to lecture us, or read to us, or write a book about us. He is not coming to make money out of us, like so many lesser literary lights.

No, indeed. He's coming to spend some money seeing what America is like.

The late Lord Northcliffe once said that the most modest man he had ever known was Conrad.

"He is so great and so modest," said Northcliffe, "that he can never be made to understand that the public has an interest in him personally aside from his marvelous books."

He lives in semi-seclusion in a modest home down in Kent. When I wrote to him asking him to see me to talk about his trip to America, he sent back a simple typewritten note.

"Mr. Conrad has nothing to say."

Not even a signature. His autographs don't go floating about the world.

NOT ENGLISH

The greatest living English novelist is not an Englishman at all. He can't even speak English without an accent that betrays his foreign origin. Let his written English be his name.

His real name is J. C. Korzeniowski and he comes from a distinguished Polish family. In his boyhood days Poland had no seaport of its own. Nevertheless the boy, whose forefathers had all been soldiers and landowners, had an insistent call to the sea. As England was the greatest sea-power, he determined to see service in British ships.

For years he traveled in Asiatic waters and around the ports of Malacca and the East Indies. At that time his favorite reading was the great French novelists. At the same time he was painfully teaching himself how to read and write English. When he started to write himself, he chose as his subject the life he knew best—that of the sea and that of the East Indies.

And his novels and tales were soon being guzzled by critics as masterpieces. It was a long time before he was not a success enough to make his books really paying ventures. Then he returned from his captivity of a merchant vessel and settled down in England.

U. S. FORCED TO PAY RANSOMS

Past Tributes to Gangsters Are Called to Mind

PIRATES SECURED MILLION

Discussion Results from Seizure of Yanks in China

WASHINGTON — (Special) — The United States officially and unofficially has often found it wise to pay a ransom for its citizens.

Throughout the short history of the nation but especially before 1815 when our navy rose overnight as a world force on the high seas, incidents followed each other with disturbing frequency in which money had to be paid bandits to protect lives of American citizens.

What will be that attitude of the United States in this latest of international outrages, in which neither of the two governments involved is directly responsible?

Will it have to pay either as a government of indirectly thru its citizens? If history is a criterion it is an even break that the bandits of China provided meagre news reports this far are correct, will receive money for the release of their captives.

ONE PAID TRIBUTE

The most outstanding example of ransom paid for release of Americans made captive lasted from 1785 until 1812, in which the United States forfeited at least a million dollars to the Bay of Algiers to redeem seamen captured by Algerian pirates.

In 1793 the government actually was forced to agree to payment of an annual sum for this purpose in accordance with the custom established by European nations.

It was only after that hardy young American Commodore Stephen Decatur with a small but powerful squadron humbled the pirates of northern Africa, that this practice was stopped.

HAS REPAYED RANSOMS

Since 1815, payments made officially by the government to bandits for release of Americans has stopped. However, in the 108 years that have passed, instances have arisen when the government repaid Americans who contributed to a fund which was used for that very purpose. The most pointed instance of this form of reimbursement by the government of "a cent for tribute," came in the famous Ellen M. Stone case.

The long war with Algerian pirates however, is the sore spot in American history. The pirates would capture in American ship and make prisoners of its crew and passengers. They would force them to work as slaves until money was received for their release. This soon became a lucrative business.

In 1812 when war broke out between Great Britain and the United States, the Bay of Algiers, believing Britain would wipe the small American navy from the seas, renewed his attacks on American ships and as his pirates were more numerous than those of Tripoli, the United States collected more money. The long struggle ended only with Commodore Decatur's campaign against the pirates which will be forever in the annals of history.

POLICE CHECK UP CARS IN CASE OF CAD LAYCOCK

Two more automobiles alleged to have been handled by Cad Laycock, of E. Market-st., were checked up by Chief of Detectives Baker (Chief of Police Linker) of the local department and Detective Sergeant Hogan of the Detroit police department late Monday.

Both are new Ford sedans and the motor numbers are only six units apart according to the investigation. One was sold to Laycock's brother and one to his sister, Mrs. J. W. Smith of Cridersville police case.

A list of cars believed to have been stolen is being checked up by the police, who are carrying on an extensive campaign against automobile thieves working in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

THREE VIOLATORS OF TRAFFIC LAW ARE FINED

Three traffic law violators were fined $1 each in criminal court Tuesday.

They were M. E. Mericle, 412 S. Main-st.; J. M. Dille, 219 1-2 S. Main-st. and J. Gray, 1528 W. Gray-st.

David Dickinson, 105 Miller-av., was fined $5 for driving an automobile without a license tag.

WILL FIGHT CHARGE
An attorney will represent F. J. Myers, 51, of 108 E. Spring-st., when he comes up for trial Thursday morning in criminal court charged with possession of illicit liquor were continued Tuesday until Thursday.

DROVE OVER FIRE HOSE
W. S. H. Engle, 837 Bellefontaine-av., was fined $5 by Judge Jackson in criminal court Tuesday when he admitted driving an automobile over a city fire hose.

MUST SERVE TERM
COLUMBUS — David J. Scott, former safety director of Youngstown, must go to the penitentiary for two years for the same crime today. The court upheld the earlier conviction of Mahoning-co in which he was found guilty of soliciting a married bride.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN BETTER THAN YOU WERE? MUCH WORSE, SAYS EXPERT; ANGELS, SAYS ANOTHER—TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Better or worse? Are Lima children as good—or as bad!—as in the days when you were a kid? Even experts disagree on what's happening to young America. What do you think about it? And what do your youngsters think?

Children of today are much better, says John C. Collins, founder of the first boys' club and a juvenile worker for half a century. Wrong, they're worse—says Miss Martha Byrne, only woman secretary to a city department of correction.

By Josephine Van de Grift

NEW YORK — (Special) "Boys and girls of today are much worse than they have ever been before," declares Martha Byrne, secretary to the New York department of correction, the only woman in the country holding such a position.

"I am living in the same neighborhood," says Miss Byrne, "where I lived as a child."

"But 20 years ago you never saw a child on the streets after seven o'clock. Today you see youngsters of 11 and 12 out on the streets until midnight."

"Twenty years ago the parents ruled the children. Today the children rule the parents."

"Twenty years ago if a parent said 'No' the child obeyed. Today the child laughs at him."

"Twenty years ago a child knew definitely what things he could do, and what things he could not do. Today he gets in all kinds of mischief, with no one to say him 'No' and his mischief frequently lands him before the police judge."

But it is not the child that Miss Byrne blames, nor even his parent. "It is the struggle for existence that is responsible," she declares. "This struggle houses people together in crowded tenements and throws the children in the streets to play."

"It takes not only the father but the mother out of the home and leaves the child without a protector."

"It leaves the father and mother so weary when night comes that they have neither the will nor the ability to find out what the child is doing and guide him in his needs."

"It sends the child to the movies for diversion and these movies, designed for adults, give the child an unbelievable sophistication."

"Added to this is the problem of the child of the foreign-born. The child goes to American schools and learns to look down on his parents and their old country ways. Despising the old standards and as yet understanding little of the new he very frequently gets into trouble."

"The child of today is better educated than he has ever been before. But he stands terribly in need of wholesome discipline."

By ALEXANDER HERMAN
NEW YORK — (Special) "Even the worst boys and girls of today are as angels compare to the best of a generation or two ago."

This is the opinion of John C. Collins who probably has done more work among juveniles than any other social worker. He has been doing organized and personal work with boys for 49 years.

"But to make them even better," he says, "there should be an eight o'clock curfew all over the country. They have it in New Haven, Connecticut, where I organized the first theaters after six o'clock."

"Since the enforcement of this measure in New Haven, a city of 175,000, the number of juvenile arrests has been cut 60 to 70 per cent. All this in less than eight years."

"Boys all need direction, but it should be gentle and not forced. Mass boys' club in the world. It works wonders."

"Children, unaccompanied by their elders, are kept out of movie theaters and others using force methods. All boys and girls are good to begin with and can be kept good if the right effort is made for them."

"Conditions aren't as bad as they used to be. More children are getting a square deal at home in the schools on the streets. But even so, there are still too many delinquents."

There could be and need be no prisons. We can do away with 25 per cent of them, by work among across the bath that leads boys to prison."

This work was started in New Haven 16 years ago. Since then the juveniles thru the Friends of Boys, which New York Police Commissioner Enright calls a barriade.

A QUESTION MARK WITH TWO SIDES, DISCUSSED BY MISS MARTHA BYRNE, SECRETARY OF NEW YORK DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTION (LEFT) AND JOHN C. COLLINS, FOUNDER OF NEW HAVEN FRIENDS OF BOYS.

175,000, the number of juvenile arrests has been cut 60 to 70 per cent. All this in less than eight years.

movement has spread thru New England. Recently it reached New York where it has been received with favor by police, educators, parents and boys and work, in voluntary association, semi-officially, with the New York Police Department.

"In Ansonia, Connecticut," says Collins, a town of 17,000, which had been overrun with so-called bad boys, we cut out nine-tenths of the juvenile delinquency in less than three years.

"As much can be done in almost any community."

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D. C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag my foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. J. W. Bennett, 1229 Penna. Ave., S. E., Washington, D. C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

FORD TO INSTALL HOME WORK

Effort Made to Keep Young Men in Country

TO LET JOBS TO FARMERS

Predicts End of Great Cities; People Going Back

DETROIT — (Special) — Michigan, whose fertile, rolling soil drew forth the crop of "I-wanna-go-back-to-the-farm" popular songs a few years ago, soon will become the testing ground for the most revolutionary social experiment ever undertaken.

Henry Ford, automobile magnate and capitalist, is the promoter of the experiment. He is willing to back the project with a large part of the million-a-month income he enjoys. Ford plans to do this: He wants to stop the growing exodus of young men from the farm to the crowded industrial center. But, at the same time, Ford needs thousands of workmen to turn out his annual quota of motor cars.

So he intends to turn farms all over Michigan into miniature factories, operated by water-power, where farm lads can earn good wages during the otherwise idle months of the winter while during the summer they can turn their attention to farm labor—the production of food for the nation.

WATER POWER BILL
Ford's plan has just become generally known through a bill introduced into the Michigan State Senate which would make water-power available for the Ford project.

"The great cities are doomed," said Ford. "I don't mean they'll fall to ruins immediately. A few will stay. They'll be big distributing and assembling points—not congested centers of population."

"The people will go back to the farm and small town. They're headed that way now."

"The city has served a useful purpose. It has taught people how to live in groups. When they go back, they won't tolerate unpaved streets, badly equipped schools, defective sanitation."

"Factory workers won't commute to and from work—their work will commute to and from them. They'll manufacture parts in their village and rural workshops and these parts will be assembled at big distributing points."

Ford said he had already tried this plan out and found it worked. "I'm experimenting in several small Michigan towns," he said.

"Not 30 miles from Detroit I've established a small shop run by water-power from an old mill. Work is sent down there, finished and sent back here."

KEEP GARDENS

"The workmen live under semi-rural conditions. They have gardens. They may keep chickens and cows, if they wish."

Of water-power Ford said: "Let me tell you water is the golden fluid of the future. We can't exhaust it. As long as it rains, rivers will flow and they'll supply power ceaselessly."

"A river charges you nothing for flowing. And it costs but little to produce the power and deliver it to the user."

Ford was himself born on a Michigan farm and spent his early life under rural conditions. He today lives on a rural estate at Dearborn, Mich.

Though he has been the biggest factor in drawing young men to Detroit from Michigan farms, he has always decried the growth of city population.

Ford last year was busy with experiments for bettering rural life chiefly with devising means to enable farmers to use the water-power in brooks and rills to run their farm machinery.

Working in industrial plants in the winter and on farms in the summer will not be a new thing for Michigan farm lads. Every fall thousands pour into Detroit to work in motor plants and when spring comes and pa writes it's time to start work, they throng back to the farm again.

Detroit is one of the few industrial centers of the world that is surrounded on all sides by prosperous farming country.

ANTI-LOVE ORDER TO BE IGNORED

University Women Say Prexy's Rule Can't Be Enforced

BANS STUDENT MARRIAGES

But Girls Say Heart, Not Chancellor, Dictates

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — (Special) — Cupid has been ousted from college. With him go all Syracuse university undergraduates who marry.

It's the dictate of Chancellor Charles W. Flint.

"Marriage," he says, "will automatically cancel a student's enrollment and all of his—or her—connections with the university."

The order is received with a shrug of the shoulder and a knowing smile by the students who ask:

"Why follow a professor's advice on love?"

"We'll do as our heart—not our chancellor—dictates."

Few take the order seriously, although the chancellor says the new regulation will be rigidly enforced, and that no exceptions will be made to the rule.

"Matrimony," says Miss Winona English of Rochester, N. Y., a senior at the university and one of the most popular students on the campus, "is a pretty big thing to regulate by mandate."

MAKES SECRET MARRIAGES

"An order prohibiting students from marrying while they are in college will only work to increase the number of secret marriages. Regulation will foster deception on the part of those who wish to marry, and will not bring about the desired results of decreasing marriages and improving scholarship."

Most of the other students hold similar views.

"It's an infringement upon the personal liberties of a person," says Miss Margaret "Peggy" Davis of Scranton, Pa., a junior student prominent in dramatics. "To dictate when he or she shall become married, either in college or not, I know that I shall not get married during the next year, but I don't like to feel that I must remain unmarried because of a college official's orders."

Miss Frances Procter of North Port, Long Island, a sophomore interested in various university journalistic activities, is just as emphatic.

NO RULES FOR LOVE

"Love," she says, "cannot be controlled by rules and regulations. Girls and boys are just bound to get married when the time comes, order or no order."

"They will have to settle in their own minds whether they care about getting married more than they do about attending Syracuse university, and—love usually wins."

When Miss Virginia Walker of Cedarville, N. J., a student in the Fine Arts Department, was asked for her views she exclaimed:

"I feel just as tho I were going to be expelled from college."

She refused to admit whether she was married, engaged, or about to be.

"Students," she said, "are going to marry if they want to. They just can't help it."

"Marriage is bigger than regulation. Perhaps Chancellor Flint is right in trying to prevent hasty marriages, but I don't believe he can control such things by written order."

Miss Helen Crockett of Onondaga, N. Y., a junior in the College of Home Economics and one of the editors of the Daily Orange, student newspaper, is of the same mind.

"College students," she says, "are just as human as other groups in society. When they want to get married, they aren't going to consider a regulation ordering them not to marry. When people, students or non-students, become serious on that question, there is only one thing that they are going to do—marry."

PEACHAM IS NOT ALL ENGLISH

German Storekeeper Spoils Claim of Our George

BROTHER IS A DEMOCRAT

Facts About U. S. Envoy to British Court

(BY EDWARD THERBY)

PEACHAM, Vt. — (Special) — This is the place that Ambassador George Harvey meant to be sold in a speech before the Royal Society of St. George in London. "I point to my native town of Peacham, which contains no man, woman or child other than English blood."

But a German spoils it! John Christian Friedrich Richter, storekeeper, hasn't any English blood. He was born in Germany.

"I'm German-born, you bet," says Richter. "I'm 100 per cent American—but 100 per cent English, too. I lived here 40 years now, even before George went away. George knows me, you bet. Every time George comes to Peacham he stops me on the back and says: 'Richter, how are you?'"

Down the road a mile is the house, more than 80 years old, where Ambassador Harvey was born in 1864. In the old homestead lives his brother, Charles Harvey, painter. Charles is alert, very thin, and very wrinkled and gray. He is seven years younger than his brother.

"Why George is half-Scotch," said Brother Charles. "Say, this is Calcutta—of I guess George was talking about the old days when he lived here. Most Scotch and English there except for Richter. Lots of French-Canadians, now, too. Why, there's only 200 men in Peacham now who were here when George was."

"No," I am not against George, except in politics. I'm a Democrat, and he's a Republican now. Being brother to an ambassador or a president is foolish. I got to be careful what I say."

Peacham is 12 miles from the nearest railroad. It lies in the hills of the Green Mountains, and the roads are so muddy that if you're wise you come in a truck.

There's Peacham-top, and Peacham and East Peacham, and North Peacham, and Peacham Hollow. Also a hamlet called Harvey, and off to the south is Harvey Lake.

The whole township has less than 700 population. Peacham village has 29 houses, two stores, a church, a school, a hall, a cemetery and Peacham Academy, where George Harvey went to school.

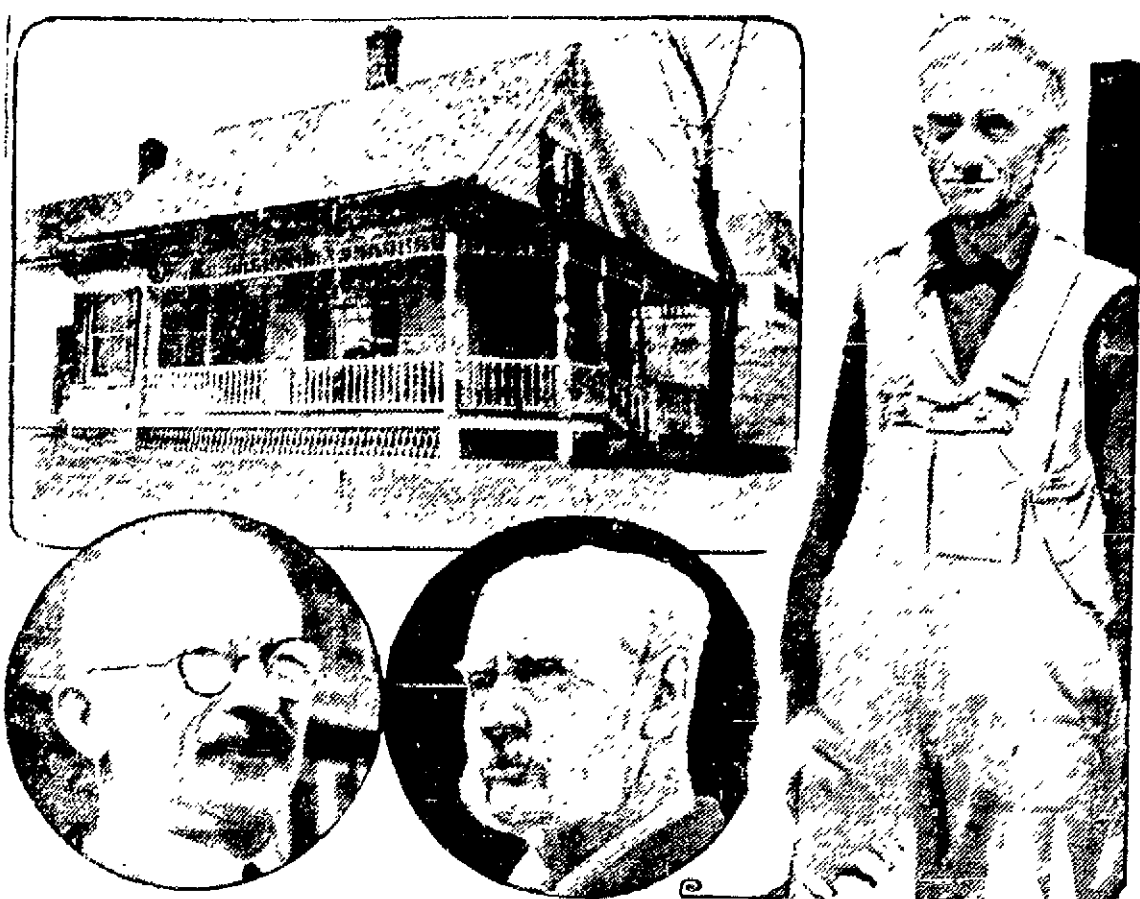

East Peacham has 16 houses and a store; it's the store that Duncan Harvey, father of George and Charles, used to run.

Houses are in the sturdy painted New England style—white, with green shutters. Brother Charles paints the town literally, and Brother George does it metaphorically.

Racial honors are even in Peacham. It's the only town for the first time since the opening. A revival of interest is looked for Tuesday. Glenn Robin, secretary declared.

A donation of $10,000 to charity will be made from the proceeds of the carnival.

to run a chicken farm when he was hurt pursuing Boston crooks and a grateful city pensioned him.

"Peacham is proud of George Harvey," said Charles A. Bunker, 83, who was George's teacher when he attended Peacham Academy. "I guess he meant we are mostly native stock here, excepting Richter, of course."

"George knew Richter wasn't English. I never thought George was particularly bright in school."

Brother Charles said George looked funny wearing silk knickerbockers, dressed for the Court of St. James. Brother Charles was faded brown overalls.

Lima and Wapakoneta Elks will join forces Tuesday night to celebrate Wapakoneta Day at the Elks May Festival.

A parade of the 500 visitors from the Capital of Anglaze-co will precede the opening of the fifth night of the celebration. A band will head the Wapakoneta delegation.

Wapakoneta Elks will leave the Elks home in their city at 8:30 p. m. and drive by motor to Lima.

A delegation of 50 Columbus Elks attended the big carnival Monday night, to obtain pointers on how Lima does it.

Attendance ran under the 1,000 mark Monday night for the first time since the opening. A revival of interest is looked for Tuesday.

A formal statement of the proposal of the trustees is being prepared and will be presented to the

PLAN BONDS FOR NEW HOSPITAL

Issue of $600,000 May be Submitted to Voters

Trustees of the Lima City hospital will ask city commissioners to place a $600,000 bond issue for the erection of a new city hospital on the November ballot. It was indicated Monday night after hospital trustees asked the commission to meet with them next Monday evening to receive a detailed proposal.

J. R. Hickoff, president of the board, with members of the ways and means committee, called on the commission Monday evening to obtain an appointment.

The plan for a new hospital is set in the popular stage, but it is thought that $600,000 will cover the cost of erection and that sale of the old hospital, 705 E. Market-st., will bring enough money to equip the new building.

City commissioners are understood to be willing to place the bond issue proposal on the ballot if public opinion seems favorable.

Several locations are being considered by the trustees for the new building, it was indicated. It will not be erected on the site of the present hospital, it was said.

The City Hospital was built 20 years ago and is inadequate to present-day needs, it was pointed out. It is in such condition that large sums are necessary every year to keep it in repair.

A formal statement of the proposal of the trustees is being prepared and will be presented to the

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF VETERANS IS CHARGED

DAYTON. — Vigorous condemnation of practices at the national military home was expressed in a resolution passed by Lieutenant Frank Stuart Patterson unit Number 1, United Veterans of the Republic at a meeting last night.

Immediate relief was petitioned from President Harding and Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer. Specific instances of brutality were charged in treatment of Henry Baker and Abels Trauma, world war veterans and members of the local unit.

These men, the organization asserted, were "man handled and illegally lodged in an insane asylum without cause or protection."

Both men, according to Thomas G. Brookover, commander of the unit, were mentally normal and while in this condition were taken to the government hospital at Marion, Ind., to be confined with mental defectives for treatment.

FEARED VIOLENCE, WOMAN SAYS

Dr. Murphy Carried Gun, Kept Clubs Handy, Declared

FIGHT FOR $20,000 ESTATE

Fifty-Nine Witnesses in Suit to Break Will

Testimony purporting to show that Dr. John J. Murphy was in fear of violence from mysterious persons was related by Mrs. Margaret Murphy, his former wife, from the witness stand in common pleas court Tuesday in the suit to break his will.

Mrs. Murphy told the jury that Dr. Murphy kept a large club in his sleeping room and another in his office. In addition, he carried a revolver and a pair of brass knuckles for protection when he ventured out of his house.

"He was in great fear of being injured by someone," declared Mrs. Murphy.

Mrs. Mary M. Edmons, 919 N. Main-st, a daughter of Dr. Murphy, is seeking to have her father's will set aside, and his estate valued at $20,000 distributed among his heirs.

The will left all to Mrs. Mabel Dunn Murphy, second wife of the deceased.

DECLARED ERRATIC

Dr. Murphy was of an erratic turn of mind, according to his former mate. He made demands for $20,000 from her when she lay ill in a Jersey hospital, at Chicago. According to her testimony he created such a disturbance he was ejected by nurses and attendants.

Medical aid was refused her, she said, as Dr. Murphy held it a waste of money.

"You will die anyhow," he is alleged to have told her.

She told the jury that often while Murphy was away, sisters of charity, brought food and administered to her relief.

Witnesses are excluded from the court room save when on the stand. The first of an array of witnesses 59 strong are to testify Tuesday for the plaintiff.

Among them are: Frank Eberle, former police-sergeant; George H. Quail, attorney; Don C. Henderson, attorney; E. E. Everett, attorney; Mrs. Irene Mills Jackson, charity worker; Frank A. Burkhardt, former mayor; Eugene T. Lippincott, prosecuting attorney; John L. Cable, member of congress; Miss Ella Diamond; Mrs. Dina Duffield and Bernard Holleran.

BENEFITTED HIM WONDERFULLY

HE PRAISES PLANT JUICE

This herbal medicine, Plant Juice, has become a common subject of conversation among Lima people since it has accomplished such surprising results in so many local cases. On street cars, in theaters and public places, on the streets and in the stores, the words "Plant Juice" are frequently spoken as people tell of the amazing relief this medicine has given to relatives or friends.

The crowds that call to see The Plant Juice Man at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, are increasing in volume every day and The Plant Juice Man is now busy all day long meeting these people and explaining the Plant Juice.

A few days ago, Mr. Perry Archer, of 230 Calumet street, Lima, a well known resident of this city, was among those who called at the Hunter store. He stated that he had already taken Plant Juice and gave the following surprising testimony.

"For months I had been troubled terribly with my liver, kidneys and stomach," said Mr. Archer. "I was constipated, felt weak, and my legs hurt me all the time. I had a soreness in my right side that gave me a great deal of trouble and my appetite was poor and what little food I did eat would make me bloat. I lost weight. I would have to get up thru the night because of my kidney trouble."

Your Plant Juice brought me fine results and now my kidneys have improved so much that I do not have to get up at night and sleep fine. I eat anything I want and have gained 16 pounds weight. That soreness I had in my side is nearly gone and my legs do not hurt me now. I do not feel weak and run down as I did before and my general condition has improved wonderfully and I will say that Plant Juice did more for me than anything I ever took in my life and I recommend it as a great medicine."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it irritates the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Mulsiflora coconut oil shampoo, for this is entirely greaseless. It is clean and beats anything else a piece. You can get Mulsiflora at drug store, and a few ounces will take the whole family for months.

Two to three teaspoonfuls of Mulsiflora in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsiflora coconut oil in. It makes an abundance of creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, rinses out easily. The hair is quickly and evenly and is fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, loosens and takes out every part of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be your druggist gives you Mulsiflora. Adv.

How it feels to be the leader of the tire business

THERE was a time when the bigger a business grew the more "uppish" it got.

Those days are over—praise be.

The makers of Royal Cords are the leaders of the industry, but they don't feel it any loss of dignity to reach out for new friends.

And they take the very simple way of just asking you to try Royal Cords. All the U. S. Royal Cord policies are simple.

For instance, Royal Cords have never talked about exceptional mileages. There are hundreds of testimonial letters in the files but they might sound extravagant and misleading to people and that is not a good thing.

Yet the makers of Royal Cords believe that Royals deliver the greatest average mileage of any tire that was ever made. This seems to be proven by the confidence car-owners have in these tires.

Royal Cords have never been sold at "big discounts." People can't tell what a tire is actually worth if it sells for all kinds of prices in different sections of the country.

The support Royal Cords are getting today from so many new users is the outcome of people feeling confidence and trusting the Royal Cord makers.

When you put Royal Cords on your car you are going to be satisfied. You will see what a good, clean money's worth they are.

One million new users will say this year: "Royal Cords!"

SCHOOL HEAD IS RE-EMPLOYED

H. R. Hick Engaged at Delphos for Four-Year Period

H. R. Hick, superintendent of the Delphos city schools, whose term expires this year, was re-employed for a period of four years, by the board of education at their regular meeting held Monday night. At the same time, 31 teachers were employed for the coming year. Positions to which they will be assigned is left to the superintendent.

Organization of special classes for pupils who have not advanced as rapidly as their fellow students, was discussed by the board.

Members of the Delphos board will meet with the members of the Ft. Jennings board at Ft. Jennings, Tuesday night, to discuss the possibility of sending students from Ft. Jennings to the Delphos schools during the coming year. The matter of tuition will be taken up. More than 40 pupils have stated their intention of attending Delphos school next year if arrangements can be made.

Teachers engaged for the coming year are: S. C. Warner, now principal of the high schools; J. A. Breese, now musical instructor in the schools; Ethel Beller, Anna Welch, Nancy Williams, Dana M. King, E. M. Gorrell, Helen White, Ethel Hart, Deborah Morgan, Nellie McMahon, Leota King, Henrietta Eysenbach, Blodwen Granger, Claudia Thomas, Grace Hartshorn, Rubene Shaffer, Florence Hicks, Virginia McConkey, Myrtle Burman, Mary Laman, Lucille Werner, Evelyn Schleibach, Nina Neidhardt, Katherine Neidhardt, Helen Rozelle, Grace Gettal, Alma Tutzi, Florence Kunder, Frances Jones, Lela Pollock.

SOLICITOR WILL ADVISE COUNCIL TO AVOID DRAW OF FUNDS FROM COUNTY

City Solicitor R. A. Lindemann, Delphos, will make an appeal to the members of the city council at their meeting Tuesday night, to wait until June 20, before taking action to replenish the city coffers which are now nearly empty. Lindemann stated that on that date the city has the right to make an advance draw on the money due from the county July 1.

L. J. Moore notes are issued to take care of the city payroll which is due May 15, and the light bill, these notes will bear six per cent interest, increasing the debt and the necessary legislation to put this thru will take nearly as long as to wait until June 20, until the advance draw could be made, he pointed out.

Another question to come up before the meeting for consideration, is the widening for three Delphos thoroughfares, Lima-av, Spencer-av, and South-st, to 30 feet instead of the present 18 feet width. The three streets will then be improved in the same manner as the Harding Highway, which passes over these three streets where it enters the city.

ANOTHER PLAN OFFERED IN DELPHOS FINANCE AID

Delphos city council will be offered another way out of its present financial difficulty in addition to the plan already presented of waiting until June 20 to make an advance draw on the tax money due July 1, when they meet Tuesday night, in the form of an ordinance drawn up Tuesday by City Solicitor R. A. Lindemann. This ordinance, if passed, will authorize Mayor J. K. Williams and City Auditor William Shaffer to issue a note for $2,500 on the Old National Bank of Delphos.

If this ordinance is passed, the city may secure the money at once and arrangements have already been made with the bank to take care of the note, Lindemann stated.

This money could be placed in a safety and service fund to meet the next city payroll due May 15.

New Recipe Booklet Tells Best Ways to Serve Macaroni

A famous New York dietitian says that taste and variety in foods are as important as nutritive value.

In other words, the best of foods become tiresome if they are served in the same old way, time after time.

Take macaroni for instance. The best food experts in the world agree that from the nutritive standpoint, macaroni is one of the best foods known.

But some people serve macaroni less often than they should simply because they're not familiar with the best ways to cook it.

It remained for the Foulds Milling Co. of Chicago to compile a really worth-while macaroni recipe book. If you're looking for new ways to serve macaroni, this book will surprise and delight you. Even left-over macaroni can be turned into satisfying and tasty dishes with macaroni just following the simple directions in Foulds Recipe Book.

The Foulds people have agreed to mail a copy of this book free to any reader of this paper as long as the present supply lasts.

Send for your copy today. Don't bother to write a letter—a post card will do. But mail it today. Address: Foulds Milling Co., Chicago.

AN UNUSUAL SUMMER

SCIENTISTS are agreed that this will be an unusual summer. They do not agree, however, on the kind of weather we will have, some predicting unusual heat while others see freak weather throughout the season.

The late spring with extremely cool nights is attributed to the fact that the sun is giving off about four per cent less heat than usual. This is declared to be a condition that exists every 11 years and has held true over 200 years covered by reliable data and is said to be the result of certain conditions on the sun, particularly sun spots.

Astronomers who are attempting to show that this will be an extremely hot summer despite the fact that Old Sol is on vacation, hold that nature so takes care of us that when we receive less heat from the sun, an insulation of ozone is formed about the earth which absorbs and holds much of the heat that the earth radiates or gives off. The scientific explanation of this is that when the sun has a mild chill, as at present, its ultra-violet rays have a greater opportunity to escape thru the sun's atmosphere and form the ozone blanket.

Even the facetious who say, "Ain't nacher wonderful!" will have to marvel at nature's marvelous system of checks and balances, revealed in this insulation now forming above us to compensate for reduced sun's heat and keep us from acute suffering.

OUR PROHIBITION TANGLE

FRIENDS and foes of the prohibition amendment have been stirred more by the action of the state of New York in repealing its enforcement law than by anything touching this subject in recent months. Those who are opposed to the attempt to make America dry see a victory; those who are everlastingly working for a more arid condition are marshalling forces to head off the action in New York, fearing its results.

Commenting on the repeal of the state law, the Chicago Tribune says:

The repeal of the prohibition enforcement law in New York is not merely a "wet" victory. It is a victory for the American system of federalism. That is founded not only upon the conception of a central government, adequately empowered to perform designated duties, but upon the equally vital conception of local self-government reserved by the states of the Union.

Prohibition is a police measure which never should have been adopted into the national law and imposed upon the states. But in the midst of the confusion and preoccupation of the great war it was passed by congress and adopted by the required proportion of the states. Nevertheless, the law was accomplished in constitutional form. It was not inconsistent with the American scheme, which divides responsibilities between state and nation. Prohibition, if justifiable on expedient at all, is a question of local self-government, and since it is imposed upon New York by National authority, New York refused to aid the imposition. No state can abolish federal authority. It can and should refuse to aid it.

One of the evils of our present prohibitory system is the liability to punishment twice for the same act, or, as the lawyers say, double jeopardy. This is contrary to one of the oldest principles of English and American law. The repeal of the New York enforcement law cures this evil in that jurisdiction. In other states, including our own, a man may be punished once by the federal authority and again by the state for the same act.

But, offensive as this feature of the prohibition situation is, it is less important than the original and basic error, which was the imposition of a national police law upon the states, and the revolt of New York was not the last of its kind. If prohibition is justifiable, the common sense and good judgment of the states could have been relied upon to adopt it in due time. There was no justification for the imposition of national authority.

HEADING OFF RECKLESSNESS

OFFICIAL orders have gone out from City Manager Bingham's office to stop the reckless dashes thru the city of fill-in fire departments going to Central station to remain while that unit of the city's fire fighting force is answering a call. The city manager is to be complimented for this action. It may result in a big saving of life and property and certainly will not detract from the efficiency of the department. Speed is essential in getting to a fire and it is necessary that some chances be taken then, but there can be no excuse for the attempt to establish speed records with the big trucks when they are not actually going to a blaze.

GUN TOTING IS EXPENSIVE

TOURISTS from America will spend 125 million dollars this year in France, bankers estimate. That would leave a snug balance to apply on what France owes Uncle Sam, but the French army will need it, and more.

Europe will never get out of the swamp until she disarms. The causes for gun toting must be removed first.

Frogs eat nothing unless it is alive, and this is a sure way of getting fresh meat.

It was pretty to see the male voices in the numbers of "Hail, Hail," and "O' McDougall had a farm." There, too, was Dr. Jonathan Vail, dean of general practitioners, and Mawruss Hottel, the haberdasher.

After lunch, to the poste again. Which should not have done. Then, at my staid, with no vest thereof. Whence came a newspaper salesman who offered me a well polished gold buck. And all but nibbled. Saw Johnnie Carnes, the Shawnee township farmer. And Ed. W. Hiner, the oil miner, newly come from Tennessee.

Home, to take bath which I missed. Sunday morning. To go afoot with my wife, poor wretch, round the block in the gay sunshine. When she saw a pretty chit, and gave her a coin. And talked long about the baby she once had. Now bigger than she. Yet, no braver nor prettier. I said prettier and braver. Both I said.

In the evening, dined in the solarium, on an egg sandwich, flavored with cold pineapple pie, and a beaker of Kominsk. So out, to salute Mike Laughlin, on his noble steed, meticulously patrolling the town. And, too, early this morn, a street cleaner was scraping Market, near Trinity. An unusual, albeit, pleasant sight. Read a while in Genesis, and so, early to bed.

DR. WILLIAM BRADY WHAT IS SCROFULA

In the first place let us clearly define the bovine type, from tuberculosis understand that there is no such disease in cattle taken in milk from disease or condition as scrofula. Wrap the notion up tenderly in a cloth and lay it away on the shelf with the catarrh, uric acid, acute indigestion, nervous breakdown, mid-dle age and female complaint bugaboos.

When the conception of scrofula as a disease was in vogue it was never a very definite or clearly described condition; owing to the vagueness of the idea it covered considerable diagnostic ignorance. Most of the conditions which the medical elders dubbed scrofulous were as we now know, tuberculosis—tuberculosis of lymph nodes, of skin, of joints, bones, of the ear. As late as 1912 one American baby specialist still maintained, rather feebly, that there was some such condition as scrofula apart from tuberculosis. Today nobody takes the notion of scrofula seriously.

Tuberculosis of the lymph nodes or "glands" as they are called by the laity, is a very common disease in children. The nodes on the sides of the neck are often involved, probably because tubercle bacilli readily lodge in these way stations of the lymphatic drainage system when the bacilli gain entrance thru diseased tonsils, decayed and infected teeth, neglected adenoids and neglected chronic nasal and ear troubles. When the tubercle bacilli are associated with the ordinary pus producing germs (staphylococci and streptococci of various strains), suppuration is likely to occur, the abscess opening upon the skin of the neck, and a fistula or sinus remaining for a long period. This is what the laity still calls scrofula.

Tuberculosis probably more often involves the lymph nodes of the abdomen, way stations on the lymphatic drainage vessels of the stomach and intestines. Tubercle bacilli are associated with the ordinary pus producing germs (staphylococci and streptococci of various strains), suppuration is likely to occur, the abscess opening upon the skin of the neck, and a fistula or sinus remaining for a long period. This is what the laity still calls scrofula.

A BIT OF MAN IN THE BOY

There's a bit of man in the boy, I say,
You can catch a glimpse of the far-away
And look at the future joy;
Whether yours or mine, you can surely see
A hint of the man that he's going to be.
Out of his laughter and out of his tears,
Out of the game he plays,
There flashes a glint of the future years.

There you can mark his ways,
The bud proclaims what the blossom will be,
And a hint of the man in the boy you see.
You may think him a boy as you come and go,
A boy who walks with you,
A glad little fellow with eyes aglow,
But a man is walking, too.
Yes, father and son, you are really three—
You and the boy and the man he'll be.

AMERICAN FILMS RESIST FOREIGN INFLUENCE

(BY GERTRUDE GILLHAM)
THE social, political and artistic influence of foreign films upon the United States will be negligible for years to come, believes Victor Seastrom.

Alien pictures, unlike influx of peoples, will not add much to America as a melting pot.

Seastrom, one of Europe's foremost screen celebrities, recently raised by the Goldwyn Corporation to direct big specials here, bases his observation on financial conditions abroad.

"Most old world countries, like my own Sweden," he explains, "cannot produce pictures for home consumption alone. They look chiefly to America as the supplementary and profitable market."

Consequently, the picture must conform to the American pattern, conforming to your ideals. And thus the distinctive native characteristics are being eliminated.

"A few notable foreign products have been exceptions, but they have had little hard slating here and have not been popularly accepted. The tendency will be to conform more and more to what is a proven American demand."

"Understand, I am not criticizing your standards or products; merely saying that foreign producers will try to approximate them."

"On the other hand, American pictures are making great inroads abroad. In Sweden they are by far the most popular. Griffith has probably had the most influence, and we've taken our technique largely from him. Chaplin, Pickford, Fairbanks, these and others of your film notables are household words in Sweden."

America is young, vigorous and afraid—afraid of its illusions, beside a certain amount of intolerance.

"Lightnin'" at Faurot Wednesday and Thursday

WINCHELL Smith, probably the most successful of American playwrights because he has never written or staged a failure, directed the staging of the "Lightnin'" production which John Golden will present at the Faurot Opera House for three performances on Wednesday evening and Thursday matinee and evening.

Smith is said to possess the "lucky touch" and a glance at a list of plays in which he has been concerned either as author or director would seem to bear out the statement. His genius as an author is reflected in "Lightnin'".

The First Year and "Dear Me." Other Winchell Smith hits have been "Brewster's Millions," "The Fortune Hunter," "Polly of the Circus," "Officer 666" and "The Only Son."

Producer John Golden is sending to this city a special company organized for London and headed by Milton Nobles, who frequently appeared at the Gaiety Theatre, New York. This company was formed for the British capital and a few of the principal cues of the East which would otherwise be compelled to wait two years or more for the record-smasher.

Besides Milton Nobles, the cast includes William Granger, Stuart Fox, Barney Gilmore, Frank Thornton, Emory Blunkell, Nydia Westman, Homer Hunt, William Lamb, Nina Shirley, Alice Quigley and many others.

Entertaining Bill Is Presented at Sigma

LUPINO LANE, comedy king of two continents, has established a name for himself among the top "big time" comedians on the silver sheet, in his latest five reel special, "A Friendly Husband," appearing at the Sigma this week.

He is peculiarly suited to achieve his position as the delighted packed houses in the London Hippodrome and on Dury Lane for years with his subtle pantomime and tumble work.

ance and censorship. It is a country that has not yet aged in the miseries, defeats and disappointments of older lands, young faith in ideals—and your movies express this national consciousness. Development of a nation's art is a matter of biology, and stark grim, bitter things will not filter into your arts until you have struggled and died for many more generations."

Seastrom points out some of the advantages the American picture producer has over the Swedish. Here the director in the big studios has much help. Specialization takes many tasks from his shoulders. Over there the directors does everything himself. He adapts the story, writes every line of continuity, finds his own locations, handles the business routine, engages the actors, and works feverishly from May to August, the light summer months, without even stopping to view the daily takes.

Then when the actors returned to the speaking stage there are no full-time movie actors in Sweden, the director begins cutting the scenes he hasn't seen before.

"Only a few comedies are made," says Seastrom. "Scandinavian folk don't indulge in the kind of fun that can well be pictured. We have no one comparable to your Harold Lloyd or Larry Semon."

The Swedish Biograph Company, which with Seastrom's own interest, has 30 theaters of its own in that many cities. The biggest studio measures 75 by 120 feet, and expenditure on a single picture does not exceed $55,000.

"From 1919 expenses mounted so that we had to send our product to other countries to make money. From that time on we had to consider the tastes of public beside our own."

He is peculiarly suited to achieve his position as the delighted packed houses in the London Hippodrome and on Dury Lane for years with his subtle pantomime and tumble work.

Ford is destroyed by a herd of goats.

Seriously and agilely the star goes hunting and single-handed captures a ferocious and desperate band of bandits. His methods are so fast in their execution and he gets them so dizzy with tree climbing and unexpected bobbings up that he ends by standing alone and triumphant above his prostrate and unconscious foes.

The supporting cast is good, including Eva Thatcher as the grim mother-in-law of the dreadnaught sort and Alberta Vaughn as the attractive wife.

A most unusual picture is "Wonders of the Sea", the educational film appearing as an added feature. It is a picture peculiarly fascinating because of its revelation of life on the ocean bed and a picture of tremendous appeal because of its entertainment and educational values.

One looks on in amazement at the marvelous array of pictures which include the fish and plant life of the submerged gardens of the Bahamas.

An striking feature reveals a girl swimming among the sea gardens and coral growths. Other views present an old wreck which, is said to be near the original Treasure Island.

Divers go beneath to explore the depths and meet with many thrilling encounters, when they spear a deadly moray and one man has a narrow escape from an octopus. The capture of a shark makes a most thrilling climax to the interesting sea picture.

This splendid double feature bill will continue at the Sigma theatre until Saturday.

"It's a Boy" Opens Season at Faurot

BEGINNING next Sunday matinee the Faurot Opera House will inaugurate a summer stock season with the Hawkins-Ball Stock Co., headed by Florence Lewin and George Whitaker and an all star supporting cast of players.

Anthony McGuire's delightful charming comedy, "It's a Boy," which ran for over eight months at the Harris Theatre, "It's a Boy," is one of the most human comedies that has been written in some years.

Its story is so simple that everyone can understand without any problems to solve, and is told in such a human and up-to-the-minute way, that it furnishes entertainment of the most enjoyable nature. Hundreds of laughs, between which are dished out a lot of wise observations, some genuine wholesome sentiment and one or two dramatic moments that will hold you silent, are the ingredients of the play. It is one hundred percent entertainment and plays of this nature are what the public wants. It is also a delightful charming bill to give every member of the stock company a chance, and affords the ladies of the company excellent opportunities to display some stunning gowns.

The policy of the Hawkins-Ball Company will be a new bill every week including late New York successes which have never been seen in Lima at prices within reach of everyone. A complete scenic production is made for each play. Matinees will be given on Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday. The plays in preparation after the opening week are such hits as "East Is West," "Up in Mabel's Room," "The Storm," "Welcome Stranger," and others of the same high standard. The company has arrived in Lima and started rehearsals today on the opening play. Seats will go on sale Friday morning and can be reserved one week in advance of any performance.

LIMA is well represented in the personnel of officers of the State Federation of Women's clubs and a majority of those women, in company with other club women of the city, will be in attendance at the state convention to be held at Steubenville, May 21 to 25. Among those attending the gathering at Steubenville, some of whom will appear on the program are: Mrs. Kent Hughes, chairman of the state committee of vocational education; Dr. Josephine Pelree, recording secretary of the federation; Mrs. John Roby, chairman of the music committee of the state and Mrs. Frank Boone, chairman of the conservation committee of the north-west district. Mrs. E. B. Taylor and Mrs. Beecher Nake, present and retiring presidents of the Lima federation, in company with other delegates of the federation, not yet designated will attend. Mrs. Frank Bell will represent the Lotus club and Mrs. E. L. Kirk and Mrs. T. K. Jacobs will represent the Women's club. There will be a member of the Women's Music club at the convention, who will appear on the musical program Friday afternoon, but up to the present time, the appointment has not yet been made.

A most interesting five days have been planned by Mrs. Cornelius Schover, president of the Ohio federation, and her committees. Each day different topics and phases of club work of interest to the women will be discussed. Among prominent people who will speak are Mrs. Wallace Perham, vice-president of the General Federation; Miss Florence Dilbert, president of the Pennsylvania federation; Judge Florence Allen, Mrs. Marx Oberdorfer, Mrs. W. F. Alexander, John Cooper Powys and Mrs. R. C. Norris, well known among Lima women, who will at this time give her lecture on "Shakespeare."

Altho there are fifteen or more of the city clubs, members of the state federation, very few are sending delegates to the convention at Steubenville. Club women of Lima, interested in any of the different lines of work that will be discussed, education, conservation, home economics, Americanization, citizenship training, community service, motion pictures, child welfare, public health, social and industrial conditions, art, literature and music, and who can find it possible to do

There will be no meeting of the Altruistic club this week. The meeting which was to have been held with Mrs. Frank Butters on Friday has been indefinitely postponed.

Mrs. Perry Percy, S. Main-st, will welcome the members of the Add-a-Sitch club to her home, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Kent Hughes will speak at the "Mother-Daughter" banquet, to be held this evening at the Central Church of Christ. "If there any reformation needed in the church today," was the subject of a splendid paper given by Mrs. F. H. Greps. At the conclusion of this interesting program, tea was served.

NOW IS THE SEASON FOR TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE--IF EVEN AT HOME!

DEAN REVIEWS

"IN THE WAKE OF THE BUCCANEERS," by A. Hyatt Verrill (Century).
"A WOMAN TENDERFOOT IN EGYPT," by Grace Thompson Seton (Dodd, Mead).
"THE UNVEILED LADIES OF STAMBOUL," by Demetra Vaka (Houghton, Mifflin).

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK.—(Special).—Now comes the season of our discontent. The bustling, the buzzing bee, the long, white road and the ship that goes out to sea—all are calling. But most of us who would set out to see how the other nine-tenths of humanity live are fettered by duty—duty at desk, at work bench, or at kitchen sink.

What better then, in hammock hours, than to listen to the tales of those hardier, or more irresponsible, souls who have trod the strange places of the earth?

Come! We are off to strange climes, borne thither by little black caravans that move across the white spaces between two cloth covers. A few volumes of new travel books and the earth is yours.

VIRGIN ISLES. If tales of pirates hold and hidden treasures fascinate you then pick up "In the Wake of the Buccaneers." This is an account of the cruise of A. Hyatt Verrill through the islands of the West Indies. "The Vigilant," a sailing vessel whose keel was laid late in the eighteenth century, a boat that once bore an unsavory reputation as a pirate ship, was a heterogeneous collection of men, as picturesque as any corsair crew.

As the Vigilant touches the shores of the many islands of the Caribbean, Verrill recounts the legends connected with them. He makes Captain Kidd a respectable, puffy, fooling sort of fellow and bestows upon Prince Rupert of the Rhine the honor of being the great pirate. As fascinating as the pirate tale was, I was more interested in the author's account of various beliefs and superstitions of the natives. Especially, the belief of West Indians that "New York" and the "United States" are one and the same. There are many white men in Gotham who are no more enlightened in that particular.

Sheik-Land. Think not that all the tales of adventure are woven by men. Nothing in any of the recent travel books I have read seemed quite so thrilling as Grace Thompson Seton's chapter on "Caravans" in "A Woman Tenderfoot in Egypt." The book deals with the feminist movement in Egypt but its big appeal is in the author's own experiences.

Mrs. Seton writes of her experience with Gancel, a Bedouin. "Holding my animal's bridle firmly, the Bedouin, lithe and powerful as a panther, stood in front of me, his face on a level with mine, not a foot apart. His eyes blazed and his picturesque speech came fast.

For weeks your glorious white face has filled my heart. I cannot sleep, I cannot eat because of you. Night and day I am mad for you. You are mine. May Allah forgive me. If I live, or if I die in a thousand tortures, still shall you be mine."

"Alone in the desert with a passion-driven animal! Ah, madame, give me the honey of your lips, the sweetness of the date shall fill us. Hold not my white ladies come in the desert for this." "The situation was impossible. I had a weapon and I would use it. It was a weapon I had been taught never to use on a human being save in a matter of life and death. I felt justified in using it now. It was a glorious opportunity. I could test it without compunction. Would it work?

"I cannot look at me! Look in to my eyes! The words issued from my lips in a vibrant whisper. My whole soul swelled with power. I, I would conquer him! "Started, the half-crazy man looked into my eyes, not six inches from his. I do not know how long the silent struggle lasted. What he saw there caused his body gradually to relax, his arms loosened their grasp, dropped to his side, his face became drained of every drop of blood, his eyes wide and staring.

"I had matched my will against him—and won. It was rather terrible to see a magnificent animal, in all the glory of its lustful strength, paralyzed into a title of her book, "The Unveiled Ladies of Stamboul," that Demetra Stamboul. One night expect from Vaka had written a fictional tale more romantic than Mrs. Seton's experience with the Bedouin. The unveiling, in this instance, is mental and spiritual, rather than physical. Demetra Vaka, a Greek born in Turkey, is well-grounded in her subject. She gives an enlightening picture of social and political conditions in Turkey today. A woman and a Greek, she sees two sides to each of the perplexing problems in Turkish affairs in which the diplomats of many nations are now concerned. And she sees two sides where many of the diplomats see but one.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ignited by Buck Bodine, the Basque, Paradise Valley blew up a dam built by Dick Acklin, owner of the land. A ranch Acklin heads, Lynchville party to Bodine's ranch but the dam makes a timely arrival. They find a dead man on a floor and Bodine a cherted, beautiful Basque, with murder. Blaze Kildare, however, declares that he shot Bodine because he was the murderer of Kildare's younger brother, sheriff of Laramie, Wyoming.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"No, that was my brother: the kid. He was only 23 when they killed him. He was a white lad, I tell you." Blaze's voice lost its drawl. "There wasn't a wrong bone in his body. He was right all right. I brought him up that way, and he was square. They sent him out to get him. When you've seen father and mother, and brother and a kid like that, you'll find it means to lose him. He had been facing land. He turned now and stared at Bodine. "I guess you've heard of the money gang; or the 'money' gang. We got to call them. They were a wild in Wyoming. Banks, a doctor, a frame they weren't a thing. But they kept out of Laramie. And the word was that they were afraid of the kid. Mooney couldn't stand that. On the eleventh of November, two years ago he and his gang stole up to the restaurant where the boy and two of his men were eating their supper and murdered them; shot them in the back. They didn't have a chance. That's right, ain't it, Mooney?"

"What?" Land cried. "You heard me?" Blaze whipped out. "He's the man! Bodine is an alias. His entire gang is in this room right now. The law forgot or got sick and gave up; but I didn't! The kid died in my arms, and I promised I'd get Mooney if it took me the rest of my life."

The excitement of the present moment dwarfed anything that had come before. Land saw that he had been helped to fame beyond his wildest dreams.

"Why, they're wanted for a dozen rail and train robberies," he cried. "If you boys will give me a hand and put the bracelets on them!" He turned to his men, and as he spoke Bodine made a flying leap for the window. Blaze caught him around the waist and they went down with a thud. Land was over them in a second, and manacled the two desperadoes. The sheriff got to his feet casually.

"Now, I don't want any more trouble," he began. "We've had enough of that. You boys live up!" In a few seconds the sheriff and his men had the gang in irons and were sitting beside Buck, whose eyes were molten with hatred and baffled rage.

The feeling of the iron manacles on his wrists infuriated the big fellow. He had roamed the mountains in desert for five years without man to grief. He knew what he was going back to face. He caught sight of Acklin, who was silently watching the proceedings. It brought a curse to his lips. "Say, Land," he cried, "don't they get out of this? I want you to get the hell out of this water right. I tricked Acklin with me in with me. His woman was here. Timberline moves the facts—too. The whole thing was to establish in the courts that the water that came down from Santa Rosa did not flow into the river. I showed Acklin how to do it, turning it into the Webster and into the river. But he was too crooked a crook for me. He wanted it. I thought he was just hogging it. But I was wrong. He knew it was the water. He could drive the desperadoes out of the valley. What he wanted. He was a liar. Brand and what he's been to Acklin. Hell try to rebuild his name."

"No," Kent said, "I don't think I'll try that." "But you self about that," Bodine smiled. "Say, Blaisdell, how'd you ever get me?"

"The kid recognized Bundy's picture," he died. "I used to see him in the park or at the river. I knew if I found him I'd be pretty close to finding you. I'm sure of him for days, but I tried to get the bunch."

"Hook his head! What a kid!" He had been the leader of the gang, but, aside from being the kid, had never been in the actual crimes. He had committed no murder. He was in the west had ever met a face to face to know him this day.

"Crowd drew back as the desperadoes filed out the wily Buck at the head and then followed them. They turned to Mercedes. She caught his hand. Kent had told her that Bodine.

"He came to the door. 'I'll take you along, too,' he announced. 'The corner won't get up before even!'"

"I'll be right out," he answered. Mercedes tugging at his arm. Her face was even whiter, if it could be.

"You did not kill that man!" he was my gun. I shot him. Why didn't you do this thing to save me?"

"Please look at her in surprise. He saw that she meant what she said."

"No no!" he hastily assured. "I got Bundy shot, but my marksmanship was terrible." He tried to smile. "Look at that hole in the wall! We fired together!"

"Mercedes' eyes widened. What Blaze said was almost impossible for her to believe."

"But jail," she insisted. "They're going to put you in jail!"

"Land came back in time to over-hear her words. He coughed discreetly before entering."

"Don't worry about jail, little girl," he grinned. "We ain't going to commit a man for shooting in self-defense. Looks to me as if happiness was comin' back to Paradise Valley. Bodine—or Mercedes—made most of the trouble."

CHAPTER XXXV
Happiness in Paradise

Three days later Blaze sat in front of the Eldorado Hotel in Winchester. The two brothers had settled down to its routine existence. The flood and the election had already held the stage overlong. Bodine and his gang were on their way to Laramie. Brand had been elected by the narrowest of margins. Esteban had been removed to the Rancho, the true story of the fallen Buck's reprisals and of Jose's death were universally known: were facts now, and accepted as such.

Blaze had been cheered for a day and forgotten. Certainly he preferred it. In more ways than one, Brand was like him. The attorney had not been for him, but for what he had promised. The big ranches must go!

Es came down Bridge Street as Blaze waited for the Paradise stage, walking with a seemingly careless shuffle, the inevitable cigar in his mouth. He smiled as Blaze nodded. They had not spoken half a dozen words to each other, and yet in their smile flashed complete understanding. It is the way of the true desert breed. Thanks to him, Blaze had been released without the semblance of a trial.

Blaze knew he had come to the time when he must say goodbye to Nevada: a day or two at the most, and he would be going back to "Yomming." His Wind River ranch claimed him for a dozen different tasks. Then, too, he would be needed at Bodine's trial. Wyoming was home, and yet Nevada had never seemed so fair as on this glorious morning. Winnemucca Mountain, a towering, clean-lined giant in the clearness of early day, seemed to march into the very outskirts of the town. Blaze could see the patch of green which marked the China Gardens. South of him the Harmony Range, all blues and purples now, tantalized him. It made him think of the Teutons and the Gros Ventres back here. But there was wine in the air here such as even Wasing did not know. Blaze sighed disconsolately. Well enough he knew the air was sweeter because of one who breathed it. He was going up to Paradise to say goodbye to her. He dreaded the trip in some ways, because it was so palpable—a goodbye trip. Pretty speeches were of intended or his tongue. So lost in reverie was he that he paid no attention to the man who took the air next to him. Imagine his surprise when he heard him say:

"You ain't exactly what you'd call a social favorite today, are you?"

"Melody! Why, you old son-of-a-gun!" Blaze's face broke into a smile. "Where you been?" he asked.

"I been representin', I'll tell you!" Both were happier over seeing each other than either would have admitted. "I been all over Nevada since I saw you." He laughed to himself. "Guess I was 'bout the only one that didn't hear the fire-bell the other night. You were right up 'mong the flames, weren't you?"

"It was tolerably warm, I right. Go on tell me 'bout yourself."

"I been workin' down to the Rancho, helpin' Kent. We got the ditches all fixed. Except for the house. I'll take a lot of money for that work, but I guess Esteban won't have no trouble borrowin' all he wants. Banks seem to think pretty well of a Basque's word. Ain't no reason why Esteban shouldn't get one crop of alfalfa before snow flies. That'll help get him over the winter."

"You're not telling me what I want to know," said Blaze. "How is she?"

Melody had never caught quite that note in his friend's voice. He looked at him sharply. "She don't talk much," he murmured. "She just looks as if she was waitin' an' waitin'."

God! women are beyond me. Kent's seen Acklin. They had a big pow-wow when it got noised around that Bodine had killed our yearlin' and burnt the wool-house and all the rest of it. The Big Boss is willin' to rebuild the dam and let the Basques own their part of it. He's seen the handwritin' on the wall. Stormin' up the snow water in the spring will give everybody all they want."

The stage rolled up to the sidewalk and Blaze got to his feet. "Where you goin'?" asked Melody. (Continued in Our Next Issue)

HEALTHY TURN IN BUSINESS SEEN

Almost Every Development in Right Direction, Forbes Says

MANY INSTANCES ARE CITED

Money Rates and Credit Expansion Included in List

(By B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK (Special) — Nothing more than what Wall Street calls a "healthy reaction has thus far occurred in industry and in business.

Let it be said quite frankly, however, that a few more ill-advised or unfortunate happenings might easily cause the reaction to go further than desirable.

The inclination in an increasing number of directions is to become gradually apprehensive over some recent developments and over the general outlook. If this attitude be carried to extremes the results could and probably would prove disastrous to every class and group, capitalistic and labor in the country.

Since March almost every important development and trend has been in the right direction. There is today, as a matter of fact, distinctly less foundation for misgiving as to the stability and permanency of our prosperity than there was then.

Here are a few facts and factors calculated to have a reassuring influence upon the minds of those who seem inclined to become scared. Money rates are not advancing. The expansion in credit facilities granted by banks has not been out of line with the expansion in business and financial activity since the recovery set in.

The Federal Reserve Board appears to realize the desirability of refraining from taking any action which might conceivably precipitate a nationwide business relapse. Certainly, since the board did not advance rediscount rates in March, there is less reason for doing so now than there was more price deflation than inflation.

Wage demands have not, on the whole, been unreasonable, nor is there ground for becoming alarmed on the score of the wage trend, except in the building industry, where trouble certainly is being courted. The upward movement in prices has received a definite check during the last five or six weeks.

The cost of living decreased during April, and the first week of May has brought 55 wholesale commodities decreased as contrasted with only 30 advanced.

True, there has been a lull in forward ordering from manufacturers at competitive prices; but this apparently reflects an abatement of speculation rather than any marked reduction in the movement of goods into consumption.

With very few exceptions, industrial plants are working at full time and have a very comfortable volume of unfilled business on hand. Retail sales, from all accounts, are very well maintained. The largest mail order houses report a rather astonishing expansion in their turnover, much of which comes from agricultural sections—a fact of encouraging significance.

Merchants' shelves are not overstocked. The railroads continue to carry a record-breaking amount of traffic. Demand for automobiles is described by most companies as very satisfactory, with no unwieldy stocks in the hands of the principal companies.

Postal receipts and customs receipts are heavy enough to satisfy the most optimistic, the sum calculated by the collector of customs at New York last month reached a new high mark. And one could go on calling a long roll of other facts and figures illustrating that general activity continues to be most satisfactory.

May it not be that happenings in the security markets have been in too slight measure responsible for the uneasiness, not to say pessimism now encountered here and there? The average price of representative stocks on the New York Stock Exchange on Friday forenoon dipped to a new low level for the current year, after several days of weakness, but rebounded rather sharply before the close and didn't have any marked trend on Saturday. The bond market also had a somewhat weak tone all week.

The banks in the stock market were hailed as of sufficient importance to justify special newspaper stories, with the result that a great deal of notice was taken of the decline, and selling reached heavy volume.

It is more than likely, too, that many business men, taking a short view, have allowed their attitude to become unjustifiably affected by the fall in the general price level. As a matter of fact, had there not come a check to soaring prices, apprehension over the permanency of our good times, would have been in order. The latest action of prices, in reality, warrants a degree of optimism, and often speculative anticipation during March. The big public would stand for more and more in this score, without having come far enough to injure business—except that prices for most agricultural products are too low.

It is to be hoped that the Federal Reserve Board will not act hastily. It is to be hoped that the government department will consider it necessary to take any action such as was taken by Secretary Hoover when the scramble for building material and building tradesmen became unsettling. It is to be hoped that there will be no more episodes such as we have had in sugar. It is to be hoped that the politicians will refrain from pouncing on railway credits. It is to be hoped that labor leaders will not give cause for business alarm.

MUTT AND JEFF—THAT'S CARRYING THE DECEPTION TOO FAR—

By BUD FISHER

BRINGING UP FATHER—

—By McMANUS

SHORT SHAVINGS

Emerson Stauffer, Spencerville, R. D. 3, writes about a small boy who went fishing one day instead of going to school. In the evening he met the boy returning and asked, "What did you catch?" "Dunno," replied the boy, "I haven't been home yet."

"The first time my grandmother rode on a train she got on at Dupont and went to Continental," writes Delmar Matson, Cairo. "She had no ticket and the conductor asked her where she was going. Why to Wagner's, my cousin's, she replied."

Gerald Matson, Cairo tells about his nephew who came to visit them. He was taken out to see the lumbus and rubbing his hand over one of the animals said, "Oh mama, what fat hair the lumb has."

County Surveyor, Walter Toy was surveying in Shawnee-ty, Ohio. Suddenly he found himself entirely surrounded by snakes of most threatening demeanor. He struck out and laid about him with such energy that within a few minutes he had killed nearly a dozen snakes entirely unassisted, except by several farmers.

Dr. Brundage, of Delphos, was out fishing and came back with a long string of fine big fish caught in Auglaize River.

Another angler of that neighborhood who was out twice without catching anything big enough to keep was asked if the fishing was good. "It's fine," he said, "for Dr. Brundage."

John Marsh reports he saw a woman with a duck under her arm and the duck going "Quack, quack, quack."

It was what she said to the prospective dinner that interested him. She was so polite. She said, "Please be quiet."

Note How Important Federal Service Is

One of the prime advantages of owning Federal first mortgage real estate serial gold bonds is the wonderful service the Federal organization accords you right up to the time you receive interest and principal in full.

All the time you have money invested in a Federal Bond we are periodically inspecting the property that is security for the loan.

Regular examinations of the tax records are made to make sure that all taxes are promptly paid.

Our insurance department is constantly checking the insurance so that you never worry about the full amount of insurance being in force.

And as you know every Federal mortgage is a first mortgage—that is guaranteed.

Call, write, or phone for Booklet A. B. 828.

What Better Reference

could a man give than a reliable bank? The banker knows the credit conditions of a community better than anyone else, and his word about you is satisfactory evidence to anyone of your integrity and responsibility.

A banking connection is invaluable to any man or business. It carries untold weight to be able to say to a stranger in reply to his question about references, "Ask the officers of my Bank." We want you to make the Old National YOUR Bank.
